I have achieved my goal of an MBA from the McColl School of Business at Queens University of Charlotte. My next goal is to find employment with a company that shares my standard of ethics, in a technically challenging, computer/data oriented environment. Please review my resume, to determine whether you have a position for a recent MBA graduate, with my experience.

I have a passion for analysis of business situations/task and using software applications to streamline task and increase productivity. Having worked with an enterprise software system for over 10 years, as an application designer/developer and manager/programmer, I have a clear understanding of how information security, information sharing and task automation can raise the efficiency of operations and reduce costs of providing services. My years of experience developing applications to empower employees and streamline business processes, has provided me with a detailed understanding of enterprise functions and a great deal of experience with accounting practices, business methodologies and delivery of products and services.

The MBA experience has re-enforced my understanding of business needs and provided me with exposure to the latest approaches for evaluating business practices and processes and inspired an analytical approach to decision making and problem solving.

Please review my resume; I welcome any opportunity to discuss this position.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Robert McGuire
